Fall Millinery

WHILE elaboration of shapes is carried to the extreme in the new Fall Millinery, this feature of itself has necessitated the use of simple trimmings that the smartness and cleverness of the lines may not be lost. A multitude of new ideas have been evolved and when the season gets fully under way many more are promised. We shall show them all, without, however, including the tiresome, commonplace and "over popular" features.

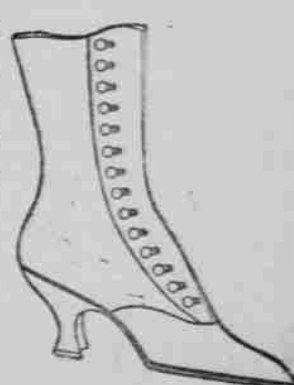

Despite the great variety of charming modes and effective shapes—their distinction and "class"—we have arranged as an extra inducement for Wednesday, an admirable and special line at the humble prices of $5.00 and $10.00 each. No two are alike and hence the opportunity presented is most unusual. Ready tomorrow morning—ready for women alert to rare values!

MASS. BATTERY REFUSES TO QUIT

Harvard Men Vote to Refuse Offer Permitting Return to School.

When an order from the war department was issued to the effect that students of eastern colleges could be mustered out of the militia service, if desired, September 1, the men of battery A, first Massachusetts field artillery, emphatically voted against the "special privileges." The vote was polled only a few days ago and a unanimous vote was registered by this battery, which is composed largely of Harvard men.

The substance of the vote was given as follows: "That if public exigencies require the continuation of militia troops on the border, it is the sentiment of the battery that, although composed largely of college men, it should not be given special favor either as an organization or as individuals over other organizations and men whose continuation in service is equally burdensome."

Artillerymen Work Hard.
The Massachusetts artillerymen are perhaps the hardest workers in this district of the border. In addition to their allotted time of three and a half hours of the outlined drill of Gen. George Bell, Jr., the Massachusetts artillerymen are working two and two half hours each afternoon in little practices of their own. The afternoon practice consists of getting of one level road and securing valuable practice in negotiating the gullies and bullet had been left in. It struck Kline in the neck, severing a blood vessel, and he lost so much blood on the way to the hospital the surgeons were afraid he would be too weak to stand an operation.

Auty begged to be allowed to give some of his own blood in a transfusion operation. A vein in his arm was tapped and his blood transferred to Kline.

Auty then returned to the police station. It was said at the hospital that it had not yet been decided that an operation on Kline would be necessary.

SOLDIERS' MAIL ON BORDER RECEIVES PROMPT ATTENTION
Austin, Texas, Aug. 8.—With the coming of thousands of soldiers to various points along the Mexican border, the problem of handling their mail by offices which ordinarily hand out half a dozen letters a week, has become a difficult one. The situation, however, was taken in hand promptly by chief postal inspector C. B. Anderson and his lieutenants, and as a result soldier mail is being handled with as much dispatch as that of the general public.

New equipment for the offices along the lower Rio Grande border had to be supplied and clerks employed. It developed that there were more than 200 postoffice clerks in the national guard, so it proved a simple matter to have them assigned to postal duty.

Dr. Darnall passed his examinations at Dallas last week for his captaincy and has now received his promotion and has been placed in charge of the medical examinations for the Dallas recruiting district.

Round Up Dogs.
Life is being made miserable for the dogs in camp. The dog masters of the artillerymen are diminishing fast. One little dog was led on a string as a decoy and he attracted all the other little dogs in camp. As a result three of the masters were impounded Monday afternoon.

Lumber has been placed on the campsite of the Massachusetts artillery for the erection of six mess shacks. Some of the shacks will be 40 by 20 feet and the others will be 36 by 20. The men will be provided with dining halls.

One that was a good one has been made to Col. Sherburne. The basis of this was given as dependent relations. No action has been taken on this application as yet. About 20 of the men whose time had expired reentered in the regiment.

Men Wanted.
Col. Sherburne desires 20 more young men for his regiment of artillery. The regiment is nearly up to full strength. A military singer with his harp sought refuge in a captain's tent on officers row Monday afternoon but he was shown away. Popping artillery shells sound better than any music and a squeaky Mexican voice, the Massachusetts men say.

Four thousand rolls of cloth screen will soon be received by the first Massachusetts field artillery. It will be used to screen the mess shacks and as mosquito netting over the cots of the men.

VICE PROBE IS NEARING CLOSE

Sensational Disclosures Are Made in Philadelphia's Condition.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 8.—Sensational disclosures have emanated from the grand jury's investigation of the vice conditions. Likewise it has developed that the inquiry is now practically complete and that the work of preparing the presentment will probably begin today. Censure of several prominent police officials is forecasted and various recommendations and suggestions dealing with the legal handling of disorderly resorts and their frequenters will be incorporated.

Records and "blotters" of the sixth police district, Eleventh and Winter streets, and the Eighth and Tenth and Buttonwood streets, were produced and examined in the grand jury inquiry. The entries on the Sixth district archives disclosed the presence of 40 speak easies and disorderly resorts in the halfwick prior to the establishment of the vice squad several months ago. These places are all in the ninth and tenth wards, east of Broad street.

In the 13th and 14th wards, which are patrolled by the Eighth district police, the records revealed the existence of 70 illegal resorts on the day before the May primaries. It was testified, the "lid was lifted" from 35 of these houses within the Sixth district, from 65 in the Eighth district. This temporary resumption of business was permitted to continue until a few hours before the "big raid" of July 15. Its purpose, according to the testimony of a police lieutenant, who was the first witness at today's proceedings, was political and was for reasons having to do with the primary election.

Heat Kills Two.
Two persons died from the heat yesterday and a number of prostrations were recorded. The temperature was not as great as Sunday. During the morning hours the temperature was several degrees higher than the same hours Sunday. In the afternoon, however, the temperature did not rise as rapidly as was predicted by the weather bureau, which gave the highest figure of the day as 91 at 3 o'clock. The same hour Sunday a figure of 92 was reached.

Not Filled in Good Faith, Claim.
The divorce suit of Helen Gallatin Welsh against her wealthy husband, Charles N. Welsh, was not filed in good faith, according to charges made today in common pleas court No. 5 by Henry J. Scott, attorney for the husband. The latter is the son of the late John Lowell Welsh, traction magnate and banker. The case was continued until Monday.

In a fiery address before judges Monaghan and Staake, Mr. Scott hinted that Thomas Ridgeway, counsel for the wife, was guilty of local blackmail in trying to collect $10,000 as a lawyer's fee from Mr. Welsh. Mr. Scott said that

PHILADELPHIA STRIKE SPREADS

Trolley Men Gain Recruits, Get Men to Quit Cars and Join Ranks.

Ridgeway had no intention of pressing the case and challenged Chester N. Farr, Jr., attorney for Ridgeway, to deny the assertion.

Trolley Men's Strike Spreading.
The strike of the trolley men began to grow by slow degrees late yesterday afternoon, and for the first time since the walkout there was evidence which might justify the claims of the union leaders that the strike would gain substantial proportions by tonight.

President H. F. Flynn, of division 477, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, who ordered the strike and R. B. Shea, 2nd ward organizer, addressed the strikers' meeting over a blacksmith shop at 25th and York streets.

When the meeting began only a handful of men were present, but before the speakers had concluded, their number was swelled to 100. Immediately the men divided in groups and began stopping the cars and began urging the motormen and conductors to join in the strike. In less than half an hour there had been 15 in this vicinity alone. The police dispersed them but they declared they would go to other sections of the city and continue their work.

Six Children Die; Four New Cases.
Six deaths and four new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the bureau of health within the last 24 hours. Four of the deaths were reported since this morning and bring the total number of fatalities since Jan. 1 in this city to 20. The latest victims were: Regina Quinn, 6 years old, 2811 North Marshall street, 43d ward; Violet Greaves, 2 years old, 27 East Pleasant street, 22d ward; Mary Miller, 8 years old, 4021 North Reese street, 43d ward; Edward Condon, 10 years old, 2505 East Auburn street, 25th ward.

The Condon child was at his home without medical attention, and the health authorities knew nothing of the case until the death report was received at the city health office.

The new cases were those of Charles Cook, 3 months old, 8517 Frankford avenue, 41st ward; Louise Briggs, 7 months old, 3244 Reese street, 43d ward; Samuel Fein, 15 months, 515 Catharine street, and Nathan Gates, 3½ years, 1522 1st.

Gives Blood to Save Friend.
Acting detective Ernest Auty yesterday permitted surgeons at the Episcopal hospital to take blood from his arm to save the life of policeman George Kline, after he had accidentally shot Kline in the neck with his short gun revolver. Kline's condition is improved.

Both men are attached to the Front and Westmoreland streets station. The two friends were discussing the merits of their revolvers at the station, when the accident happened.

Auty thinking he had taken out all the cartridges, snapped the trigger. One
